CALL FOR PAPERS

Concept Note:

The seminar on “Gender Justice—A Myth or Reality?” seeks to critically examine the progress and challenges in achieving true gender equality in contemporary society. Despite significant advancements in legal frameworks, policies, and social awareness, gender disparities persist in various spheres, including economic participation, political representation, education, and access to justice. This seminar will explore whether gender justice remains an elusive ideal or a tangible reality by analyzing systemic barriers, cultural norms, and institutional biases that perpetuate inequality. Key discussions will include the role of law in enforcing gender equity, the impact of patriarchal structures, and the intersectionality of gender with race, class, and sexuality. Experts, activists, and policymakers will share insights on successful interventions, grassroots movements, and global initiatives that have advanced gender justice, while also addressing gaps in implementation. The seminar aims to foster dialogue on actionable strategies to dismantle discriminatory practices and promote inclusive development. By engaging stakeholders from diverse sectors, the event will highlight the collective responsibility needed to transform gender justice from a theoretical concept into a lived reality, ensuring equitable opportunities for all genders in every aspect of life.
